Mrs. W. H. Settles Goes To Reward

Last Friday, November 24, Mrs. W. H. (Aunt Lou) Settles, aged 94 years, since September 15, passed into rest from the home of Mrs. Bert Van-Every, where she had lived the past three and a half years. Mrs. Settles was the mother of seven children, and survived by two of them, Mrs. Robert Wright, of Sedalia, Mo., and Robert Settles, of this city.

Funeral services were conducted at the late home Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by Rev. B. W. Trimble, and the body was interred in Machpelah cemetery.

Mrs. Settles had been a member of the Christian church since early childhood and was counted among the faithful. By Mrs. Settles' going another landmark has been removed. Faithful and true as a wife, a mother, a Christian woman was she. May the children and grandchildren follow her example as a woman and as a Christian. To be like her is to be one of the very best citizens.

HOD ELLER HERE

Hod Eller, manager of the 1922 Mt. Sterling baseball team in the Bluegrass League, is in this city for a few days, and may decide to remain here for the winter. It will be good news to the fans to know that Eller will again have charge of the team next year. He states that he has several wonderful players in view, whom he expects to line up shortly, and when the season opens he hopes to have a formidable team representing Mt. Sterling. During Hod's visit here he is enjoying several hunting trips, and if he is as good a marksman as he is at "throwing that old pill over the pan" he is some shot.

FOR SALE

Will sell 200 or 400 acres of land on Winchester pike, 3 1/2 miles from Mt. Sterling.—J. M. Hoskins, phone 508 J-2. (1-1f)

SHOOTING AT WINCHESTER

John Wells, 60 years old, was shot in the forehead and probably fatally injured, it is alleged, by John Webster, taxicab driver, at Winchester yesterday. Webster was said to have been intoxicated. He was arrested.

Investigation of the shooting by the police is to the effect that they had had no quarrel, as first reported, but that Webster fired through the window of the Bluegrass garage, the bullet striking Wells accidentally and inflicting a probably fatal wound.

Come to the oyster stew supper on Thanksgiving evening in the dining room of Mrs. Sharp's boarding house from 6 to 9 o'clock, given by the second division of the Girls' Circle of the Christian church for the benefit of an orphan. Bring all the family. Babies will be taken care of while you eat.

Pool May Start Receiving Dec. 11

Receiving plants of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association will be opened to receive the 1922 crops of members December 11 if there is a season. Director of Warehouse Ralph M. Barker said Saturday. Warehouse managers and hook-keepers from all parts of the burley district will be at Lexington Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday, Director Barker said, to receive their final instructions.

District graders and managers of the association's redryers also were at Lexington Monday for their final instructions, and on Monday, December 4, warehouse graders will be in Lexington to take their examinations, which are required before they are permitted to pass upon the crops of the growers. These examinations will include practical demonstrations on ability on the part of the graders to do the work which will be required of them.

Director Barker reiterated his statement of last week that members of the association will not be compelled to haul their tobacco to the larger receiving stations in order to obtain a good grade, and said that expert graders would be at every burley receiving point and that grades would be uniform throughout the district.

For that fruit cake we have everything you will require—spices, nuts of all kinds, raisins, dates, candied cherries and pineapple. Phone your order or call at Vanarsdell's.

WINCHESTER WITHOUT WATER

The water supply of Winchester is almost completely exhausted, and the supply has been cut off to the public, only a sufficient amount being retained in the reservoir for fire protection. The long drought is the cause of the shortage and it is likely Winchester will be without water until the pipe line to the river is completed, which will be several weeks.

LOST—Gold fountain pen, on street, Friday morning, between residence of A. N. Crooks and T. K. Barnes. Finder return to this office. (pd)

FORMER CITIZEN DEAD

Word has reached here bearing the news of the death of J. C. Coons at Hawesville, Mo. Mr. Coons was 87 years old and left here about 40 years ago. He was an uncle of J. T. Coons and is survived by two grandchildren. His wife, who preceded him to the grave, was a sister of the late Washington Kemper. The body was buried in Missouri.

FIRST SNOW

The first snow of the winter fell Sunday night and the ground was covered with a thin blanket of "the beautiful white" most of Monday.

Let us furnish your Thanksgiving dinner. The best the market affords can be found at Vanarsdell's.

"Phoebe" To Be Given By Local History Club

Rehearsals for "Phoebe" have begun, and the production will be ready for the Mt. Sterling theater goes on December 10. "Phoebe" is a clean, up-to-date musical comedy with a clever plot, catchy music and graceful dancing. The plot is connected and runs throughout the show which, along with the songs and dances, give "Phoebe" the atmosphere of a professional production.

The cast is near completion and will be announced later. From the attitude shown by both cast and choruses in getting the dancing, the directors predict a performance equal to the one given at Frankfort which seemed to please the theatergoers so much.

"Phoebe" is without a doubt a new kind of musical show and differs in every way from the old stereotyped ideas of the blackface comedian with the Dutch and Irish slapstick work, to say nothing of the unfinished dancing and chorus work that is so prevalent in most amateur productions.

Critics say: Ironton (Ohio) Register—"Delightful plot; exceptional dances; beautiful costumes—the most successfully staged home talent affair in Ironton's history." Ashland (Ky.) Independent—"The most enjoyable entertainment that has been the privilege of Ashland audiences to see." Newark (Ohio) Advocate—"The Belasco production of amateur theatricals."

"Phoebe" is being sponsored by the local Woman's History Club, and with this love organization in its support, should prove to be the most successful production ever staged in this city. Tickets will be on sale by the members of the organization, and those who expect to attend the show are urged to buy early.

Fifth Grade—Lorene Willis, Mary Marvin Coons, Angie Whitaker, Ada Whitaker, Willie May, Caudill. Seventh Grade—Myrtle Willis and Beulah Rankin. Teacher—Mrs. Stanley Thomas.

A FORMER CITIZEN

A letter to George Eastin from C. W. Carpenter, Kalamazoo, Mich., extends an invitation to Louis Eastin to be with him at dinner on Thanksgiving day. C. W. Carpenter was formerly a leading dry goods merchant here and is held in the highest esteem by our people who will be glad to know to learn of him and that he is doing well. Louis Eastin's address is unknown to his brother.

Burley Brings $29.15 Average

The non-pool tobacco market opened yesterday on four independent warehouse floors in Lexington, a total of 267,545 pounds being sold at an average of $29.15 per hundred. The average is much higher than on the opening day of last year's season or on any day during the selling.

The tobacco was good in quality generally, but where a poorer grade was offered the price held up unusually well. Tobacco was sold at two houses during the morning, the selling beginning at the Geary warehouse on Manchester street, the buyers then going to the Virginia avenue warehouse.

In the afternoon the group of buyers was augmented by the arrival of other buyers and with two sets of buyers present, sales were held at the same time at the Jewell and People's warehouses. The buyers represented the American Tobacco Company, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Liggett and Myers, Kirkpatrick and Stevens, E. J. O'Brien, Kentucky Tobacco Redrying Company, G. Vaughn Tobacco Company, Southwestern Tobacco Company and Lexington Tobacco Company.

To W. M. True, Clark county, goes the honor of receiving the highest price paid for any one basket of tobacco. A basket in his crop weighing 395 pounds was sold for 55 cents a pound at the Virginia avenue warehouse. His entire crop of 3,170 pounds brought $1,236.75.

Morehead Gets Eastern Normal

Morehead was selected as the site of the Eastern State Normal School at a meeting of the normal school commission held Saturday afternoon at Lexington, and Prof. R. T. Green was named as president of the Western State Normal School at Murray. W. S. Wallen, of Prestonsburg, a staunch adherent of Paintsville as the location of the school during the early periods of the controversy, cast his ballot in favor of the Rowan county town on the fifth vote Saturday, and the deadlock of several months standing was ended. Professor Green was elected with only one dissenting vote.

Only the two towns, Morehead and Paintsville, were voted upon at the meeting, but before casting his vote in favor of the former town, Mr. Wallen offered West Liberty, home town of Judge E. C. O'Rear, chairman of the commission as a compromise location, but when members of the commission refused to select this site he voted with Judge O'Rear, Sherman Goodpaster, Thomas A. Combs and M. W. Senff for Morehead.

Mr. Wallen stated that he believed needs of the state required the normal school at the earliest possible moment, and that as another deadlock seemed to be inevitable, he gave up his stand in favor of the Big Sandy location.

The citizens of Morehead have agreed to donate the land for the school and will also construct buildings to the extent of $100,000, this offer having been made sometime ago as an inducement to the commission to locate the school in Rowan county. If all of this money is not paid out in the building fund, it has been agreed that the difference shall be made up in cash. Paintsville has also offered to donate 20 acres of land for the site of the buildings and to raise a fund of $100,000.

RED-BLOOD FICTION

The red blood fiction of these times is much concerned with doom; for passing souls the church bell chimes, and graveyards have a boom; the heroes, steeped in gory crimes, are agents of the tomb. The cowboy still infests the scene and plies his smoking gun, although his grave has long been green, his trial race is run, and his years burn gasoline where once he had his fun. And in the north the killers wade through snow, day after day, and dig a pathway with a spade to people they would slay, and many venal deeds are paid in blood, the good old way. In murder ships the weapons pop, fired by a pirate crowd, and able seamen reel and drop, all ready for the shroud; this is the beetle sort of slop our schoolboys are allowed. I ask no wishy-washy fare for growing girls and boys; a tactful murder here and there the healthy soul enjoys, but when there's bloodshed everywhere, it wearsies and annoys. And kids are prone to say, "Gadzooks! We find it written down, in wholesome, red-blood, heman books, by authors of renown, that blood should flow in crimson brooks, so we'll shoot up the town!" I have three bullets in my shanks, and seven rusty nails, the outcome of exultant pranks by boys who read such tales, and I am numbered with the cranks for filing kicks and walls.—Walt Mason.

A LITTLE CHILD'S GRATITUDE

As the Thanksgiving season approaches, it behooves us to talk about our children. Shall we let them look forward to that day as one in which physical and social indulgence alone will be the outstanding feature—a big dinner, lots of fun and company, or shall we make an effort to instill in them gratitude, a real thankfulness for the many things which come to them day by day? A child is not a grateful little animal by nature, and the mother must by unflinching guidance and care form this virtue in him if she would have him be a useful and happy member of society.

"Maver, where milk tum from?" asks three-year-old Danny, stopping in the midst of his cooling drink on a warm day. "Why, Mrs. Moore's black and white cow gave you the milk, dear. You remember we watched her going down the road last night. Tom brought the milk over and put it on our porch."

"What do you say to him for bringing your milk?"

"Thank you," said Danny triumphantly.

"And what shall we say to the good old cow?"

"Thank you," He waved happily in the direction of the Moore's barn and lane where he had spent many blissful evenings watching Tom drive in the cows.

Little by little our children can be led in this simple way to see the chain of workers behind the food they eat, the clothes they wear, and in fact any and all of their material blessings.

It is only one step more to the loving Father who gives the rain and sun, who causes all growth, to whom our gratitude must go out for His care.

Let Thanksgiving day, then, be a day when our children remember in thought all those who have helped in gathering together the fine dinner for the day, and further still express the gratitude. No virtue is worthy if not outwardly expressed.

Perhaps there is a needy family who will not have so much for the Thanksgiving day, and the children can help pack a basket and deliver it to them. The mother can sum up her little lessons and say, "So many people have helped us to have Thanksgiving dinner, now we must help some one else to have one." Thus she will turn the little one's spoken gratitude into service.

"Tom has brought our milk every day, let us save this big red apple to give him to show him how thankful we are."

Thanksgiving is a fitting preparation for the beautiful festival day which follows so soon, Christmas. It is when a child truly feels and expresses gratitude that he in turn is ready to give and do for other. "LOVING AND GIVING" will make sunshine in our world. "God so loved—That He gave."—Mary Collins Terry.

A DESERVED VICTORY

In explaining the Democratic victory of November 7 and highly approving it, the Republican Boston Transcript editorially says, among other things:

"The best part about the wiggling which the people have given at the polls in many parts of the country to the party in power is that the wiggling was well deserved. * * * The party in power has neglected its opportunity, paltered in the face of grave and pressing problems, played fast and loose with the veterans of the great war, goose-stepped before organized bands of noisy minorities, honeyfugled the pacifists, enacted a tariff bill that, as we have repeatedly said, is a 'disgrace to the Republican party and a menace to the nation,' insulted the intelligence and inflamed the passion of the electorate in many parts of the country by appointments to office that are indefensible on any score—for example, E. Mont Riley as governor of Porto Rico, and a whole tribe of political swindlers south of the Mason-Dixon line."

"Instead of leadership in the lower house of congress the Republicans have set up an oligarchy consisting of Mondell, of Wyoming; Madden, of Illinois; Kelly, of Michigan, and Anthony, of Kansas,—the worst of the lot. Instead of resisting the impudent and insolent manner in which this oligarchy has invaded the constitutional premises of the executive, the executive has in too many instances, saluted before the invaders. In the place of 'one man government' at the executive end of the avenue, the party in power has given the country a taste of misgovernment at both ends by a congressional oligarchy unfit to administer as it was legislated."

LA FOLLETTE, ET CETERA

Something like twenty-five of the men elected to the next house of representatives by what are ordinarily Republican constituencies are regarded as progressive-radical or radical-progressives—the exact shade of difference being left to determination by their alignments and performances.

Half the number of these political outlanders would be enough of the house and dash Republican hopes of success in 1924. It is well within their power to defy the leaders in congress and the White House itself, and to wreck the Republican party if they are ignored or spurned in the apportionment of committee appointments.

For the most part, these radical-progressives or progressive-radicals—whichever they are—feel bound by ties of political allegiance of by identity of policies and program to Senator La Follette. This combination of former alliance and sentimental attachment practically bestows on Senator La Follette the leadership of this group, which is numerically strong enough to constitute a balance of power between the Republicans and the Democrats. In the end, therefore, it will not be Senator Lodge or Senator Watson in the senate, or Speaker Gillette of Representative Madden of Illinois, or any other Republican in either branch of congress, but Bob La Follette that will boss the pot.

CAN THEY ELIMINATE LA FOLLETTE AND BORAH?

The talk of "reorganizing" the Republican party and of "reorganizing" the committees of congress and abolishing the seniority rule—much of it in Republican newspapers—may well be interpreted in the light of Senator La Follette's supremacy. This "reorganization" of their congress and their party is apparently designed by the reactionary Republicans to eliminate La Follette and Borah, and all the recent accessions to their ranks. If the attempt at exclusion of these men is made it is almost certain to provoke a fatal strife in the Republican ranks, but the alternative of not undertaking this elimination is now fraught with equal danger.

President Harding's fate in 1924 depends on the performances of the Republican congress in the next two years. If this congress is forced to play the progressive game it will lose for the Republican candidates the friendship and funds of the trusts and monopolies which have been supporting Mr. Harding's party. If the Republican congress flouts the progressives, the latter will take away their own and the votes of scores of thousands of their followers. It begins to look as if the Republican managers will have to elect between the contribution of money by the big interests and the contribution of ballots by the progressive voters of the trans-Mississippi sections of the country.

CAN'T GIVE AWAY A DRINK

The final chapter in the move to make the giving away of a drink of intoxicating liquor an offense under the 1920 prohibition law was written when Judge Gus Thomas in the court of appeals overruled the motion of W. W. Simpson, of Butler county, for a rehearing of his case. Simpson was charged with giving away a drink of liquor and the findings of the Butler circuit court which declared the gift of a drink of liquor a violation of the 1920 prohibition law was sustained. In the motion for the rehearing Simpson asked for a modified opinion and this motion was dismissed also by Judge Thomas.

STOCK SHOW WIDENS SCOPE

The First National Boys' and Girls' Club Exposition and the Fourth Annual Tour of 600 champion club members from thirty states will occur in connection with the International Livestock Exposition, December 2 to 9, at Chicago.

Among the features of the week will be demonstrations in the animal and farm crop projects by champion teams; a national canning contest; an exhibit of products produced by the boys and girls, and trips to the many points of interest in Chicago, including the packing plants, a barvester plant, new Field museum, Lincoln Park zoo and other business institutions.

The International Livestock Exposition and Chicago's leading business houses are making extensive plans to welcome these young blue bloods of the farm, who will be the leading agriculturists a decade hence.

Among the prominent men who will speak to the boys and girls are Hon. M. C. Wallace, secretary of agriculture; E. T. Meredith, chairman of the national committee on boys' and girls' club work; J. H. Palteber, president of the American Bankers' Association, and J. R. Howard, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

CLEAN UP, PAINT UP, LOOK UP

If every town in the south would imitate most of the towns in Florida, the south would become noted over the world for the beauty and charm of its town.

Cleanliness, it has been said, is next to Godliness. A dirty individual is neither clean spiritually nor mentally. Dirt makes for ruin physically, mentally morally. This is as true of a town as of an individual. The dirty town, the town full of rubbish, of untidy houses, of muddy streets, of insanitary conditions, is non-progressive materially, morally and educationally. Neither moral nor material advancement flourish in dirty, unkempt dwellings or in unkempt towns.

If any town or city is ambitious for advancement, or if even a few of its men and women are ready to devote their time and energy to the betterment of the community, the surest way to achieve success is to clean up—make back yards and front yards clean, make streets clean and keep them clean, encourage the people, white and black, to beautify their homes and their yards, stimulate a love for and a pride in their homes and in their towns, repair the tumble-down yard fences, paint up, make things as clean outside as they should be inside, and then that community will look up mentally, morally and materially.

No community which does not clean up and paint up, which does not do its best to have clean streets and clean yards, has any right to look up and face the world.

"A cheap coat," said President Harrison, "makes a cheap man." In the same way it might be said a dirty town makes a dirty people; a dirty people makes moral and material dirt and decay. It is the duty of all men and women to make their homes and their home towns just as clean and attractive and beautiful as possible. He who fails short in this respect fails short of his duty to God and man, it matters not what else he may do.—Manufacturers' Record.

Don't stop to grumble and to sigh,
Be thankful that you are getting by;
—For if a man had his own way,
He'd be in trouble every day.

There's too many people talking that should be listening.

KENTUCKY MOUNTAINS ARE RICH IN OIL SHALE

Kentucky alone can produce, from her oil shale deposits, four times the amount of oil that can ever be obtained from the combined wells of the entire United States, according to an estimate in the Quarterly of the Colorado School of Mines, devoted to an article on "The Oil Shale of Kentucky" by the president, Victor C. Alderson.

Much of the material for the article was furnished by work of Professor C. S. Crouse, of the department of geology, University of Kentucky, and E. E. Hedges, of New York, who worked with him. Professor Crouse's photographs of shale hills and cliffs in Eastern Kentucky, especially on Red river, illustrate the article.

January 1, 1922, there remained in the ground nine billion barrels of oil recoverable by methods now in use, according to an estimate of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists and the United States Geological Survey. In the oil shales of Kentucky alone there are ninety billion tons of easily accessible oil shale, which, yielding seventeen gallons to the ton, an ultra-conservative figure given by Dr. Alderson, could produce thirty-six billion gallons of oil, four times the amount of the world's oil reserve.

While the supply from wells is uncertain, salt water has entered the Mexican pools and the peak production of many domestic pools has been reached, the production of shale oil will not at once supplant the well oil industry, the writer states. Well oil is a waning asset, and when the total supply is less than the demand the need for oil will place the price at a figure enabling oil to be produced from shale at a profit, he says, declaring that the change will come gradually, shale oil merely supplementing well oil instead of supplanting it suddenly.

Kentucky oil shales will produce not only gasoline and fuel oil, but ammonium sulphate and other products, probably, when these are established on a profitable commercial basis, Dr. Alderson believes. Some of the larger corporations have purchased large acreages of oil shale lands, secured United States patents, tested with the diamond drill or surface cuts, and know what they have as a potential oil supply.

While Kentucky oil shale is less per ton than some American deposits, the presence of nitrogen allowing the manufacture of ammonium sulphate gives the deposit a commercial value in excess of that for the oil shale. Kentucky has a convenient and ample water supply, nearby cities providing a home market, labor and transportation, and exposure of shale in bluffs, so that it can be virtually quarried, rather than mined.

The outcrop in some places is 200 feet high, but the average for the 250-mile exposure is sixty feet. About 1,000 square miles of shale is exposed in the state and available for open cut and steam shovel methods. There are available about 90,000,000,000 tons. The largest oil yield is from Taylor county shales, 27.73 gallons to the ton, and the lowest from Rockcastle county, eight gallons. The average is about twenty-one gallons. At the University of Kentucky Professor Crouse and Mr. Hedges developed a retort especially adapted to Kentucky shale.

The Devon Oil Shale Products Company, capitalized at $1,250,000, has acquired a 424-acre tract near Clay City, Powell county, and is erecting a plant of 1,500 tons daily production. The Central Oil Shale Corporation, Pittsburg, has acquired a tract of 800 acres eight miles east of Mt. Sterling.

EXCHANGE SAVINGS

Postmaster Turner today pointed out that although the 1918 series of war savings stamps did not mature until January 1, 1923, the holders of these stamps are now privileged to exchange them at their face value of $5 each for treasury savings certificates, which will mature five years from January 1, 1923. Treasury savings certificates are issued in denominations of $1,000, $100 and $25, costing $820, $82 and $20.50 each, respectively.

Postmaster Turner further stated that it was his opinion that a majority of the owners of the 1918 stamps would take advantage of the government's offer to exchange them for the treasury savings certificates in order to eliminate the possibility of any loss of the original investment in the 1918 war savings stamps.

All details in connection with the foregoing exchange can be secured at the local postoffice.

COVER CROPS SAVE SOIL ON THOUSANDS OF ACRES

Reports already received from 16 counties of the state indicate that cover crops this winter will stop soil washing and the leaching away of plant food on thousands of acres of Kentucky farm lands, according to R. E. Stephenson, soils specialist of the College of Agriculture. Despite the fact that this is only the second year in which an intensive cover crop campaign has been put on in the state, the acreage of such crops has made a substantial increase.

In 14 of the 16 counties, farmers have started demonstrations involving close to 19,000 acres of rye alone to show their neighbors how fields can be protected from washing during the winter. This rye not only will prevent soil erosion and leaching losses on the various farms, but also will furnish fall, winter and spring pasture and make a good residue to plow under for green manuring purposes, thereby putting humus into the soil. Barley also has proved popular as a cover crop, seven counties reporting demonstrations involving 2,300 acres. Barley, like the rye, will protect the soil, furnish grazing and in many cases make a grain crop that can be harvested next spring.

Farmers in nine counties of the state are putting on demonstrations this winter to show the value of crimson clover as a cover crop. This crop makes a good winter legume, but in many cases farmers have found it hard to get a stand of it that would go through the winter. Four hundred and sixty acres of it are being grown in the demonstrations. Farmers in eight counties have demonstrations under way to show the value of vetch as a winter cover crop. The year growing 300 acres of this crop. Vetch is harder and more reliable than sweet clover, but the price of seed is almost prohibitive. Rye and vetch commonly are grown together.

Seven counties report demonstrations involving 3,300 acres of winter oats, while alfalfa and sweet clover are being used for cover crops in other counties. Wheat also will protect the soil on thousands of acres this winter, although this crop usually is harvested for grain. Counties that already have reported on the acreage of cover crops seeded are Marion, Allen, Jackson, Grayson, Lawrence, Reckinridge, Morgan, Owsley, Union, Jefferson, Harlan, Calloway, Fleming, Meade, Campbell and Madison.

WOMAN PREACHER

Salyersville has a woman preacher in the person of Miss Cochran, who a few weeks ago was appointed by the Kentucky Conference as pastor of the M. E. church at Salyersville. Since locating there she has been doing things on a large scale. She is principal of the high school at that place in addition to looking after the Methodist church. Rev. Cochran is some preacher. Those who have been fortunate enough to have heard her preach say she can outpreach most of the men.—Paintsville Herald.

Severe Indigestion

"I had very severe attacks of indigestion," writes Mr. M. H. Wade, a farmer, of R. F. D. 1, Weir, Miss. "I would suffer for months at a time. All I dared eat was a little bread and butter. . . consequently I suffered from weakness. I would try to eat, then the terrible suffering in my stomach! I took medicines, but did not get any better. The druggist recommended and I decided to try it, for, as I say, I had tried others for two or more years without any improvement in my health. I soon found the Black-Draught was acting on my liver and easing the terrible pain.

Thedford's

"In two or three weeks, I found I could go back to eating. I only weighed 123. Now I weigh 147—eat anything I want to, and by taking Black-Draught I do not suffer."

Have you tried Thedford's Black-Draught? If not, do so today.

DAIRY EXPERT HERE

D. M. Farmer, of St. Louis, arrived in Mt. Sterling recently and will be in this vicinity three or four weeks, studying the cost of producing milk and other livestock feeding problems.

Mr. Farmer is a graduate of North Carolina State College of Agriculture and has had experience in feeding methods in various parts of the country. In his study of the dairy situation Mr. Farmer has found that the dairymen making the most money are those who are making a close study of the cost of production and producing their milk cheaper than the average farmer. "Little can be done," declared Mr. Farmer, "to raise the selling price of his produce. However, a great deal can be done to lower the cost of producing it. He must produce as much home grown roughage as the stock will eat, thus cutting the grain cost as low as possible. In producing grain he should buy that which will produce milk cheapest; in order to determine how much it is costing to produce milk, he should keep records on his cows and weigh his milk. This will show which cows pay, as well as what it costs to produce his milk." While in this territory Mr. Farmer will be glad to show anyone how to figure their cost of producing milk and tell them how their figures compare with those producing milk under same conditions. He may be reached at the establishment of Greene & Duff, phone 12.

Big Sandy Fighting Normal School Sites

A petition asking Governor Morrow to call a special session of the legislature to "amend or repeal" the law providing for two normal schools in the state was endorsed at Ashland yesterday by representatives of the Big Sandy valley, who met to protest the selection of Morehead as the site for the eastern state normal school. Representatives of the Big Sandy, who urged the selection of Paintsville for the school, have formed the Eastern Kentucky Normal School Association, with John E. Buckingham, president of the Ashland chamber of commerce, as president, and G. A. Nash, also of Ashland, as secretary.

The resolution calling for a special session follows:

"Whereas, the action of the commission appointed under the provision of the normal school act of 1922 to establish normal schools in eastern and western Kentucky has, by its announced selection of the sites, defeated the intent of the 1022 legislature in passing that law, and also wholly disregarded the findings of a competent and non-partisan educational survey commission provided for by acts of the 1920 legislature to determine what location for these normal sites would best serve the interest of eastern and western Kentucky, and being of the opinion that the calling of a special session of the legislature to repeal or amend the said normal school act of 1922, is now the only means by which a great and continuing injustice to the citizens of these sections can be averted.

"It is, therefore, resolved, that the undersigned Eastern Kentucky Normal School Association in session assembled at Ashland, Kentucky, and representing eastern Kentucky, hereby respectfully petition his excellency, Edwin P. Morrow, governor of Kentucky, to call a special session of the Kentucky legislature for these specific purposes."

American Legion News

United States Commissioner of Education John J. Tigert has written the following article in behalf of the American Legion's educational week, December 3 to 9: "The American Republic will stand or fall with its school system. James Madison asserted this in effect when he said: 'A popular government without popular information or means of acquiring it is but a prologue to a farce or a tragedy, or, perhaps, both. Knowledge will forever govern ignorance, and a people who mean to be their own governors must arm themselves with the power which knowledge gives.' We are justly proud of our universal free school system, no other nation has anything like it. While no boy or girl is denied education at public expense in America yet it must be confessed that the opportunities offered vary within the widest extremes. Some of our public schools cannot be excelled, others are so deplorably lacking as to be almost useless. It is our purpose to show briefly what some of these inequalities are. Whether we consider the sums expended upon public education, the training of teachers, the buildings and equipment, length of the school term or other vital factors which determine the efficiency of schools, we are immediately struck with the startling diversity which now exists in the United States. This diversity in educational opportunity is apparent whether we are comparing equality of educational opportunity for children among the different states or of those living in different countries within the same state, or even in the districts within the same county. Indeed, it often happens that the most obvious differences exist between children living in different districts in the same state and between those living in rural districts and those living in nearby or even adjoining city territory."

The national executive committee of the American Legion has authorized the emblem division at national headquarters to procure and offer for sale an official county banner of the legion. The upper half of this new banner will be white and the lower half blue. Otherwise it will be identical with the standard post and department banner. This new type of banner will fill a long felt need for official colors that will instantly identify county organizations from that of posts. The prices of the new colors will be, woolen, $40, and silk, $60.

Instructions have been sent to all state commanders of the American Legion to confer with and make selection of district chairmen, who automatically become members of the national rehabilitation committee. This follows an announcement by the national commander that the constitution of the national rehabilitation committee is receiving his personal attention. Mr. Owsley has appointed Joe Sparks, of Columbus, South Carolina, as chairman of the national committee and he desires Mr. Sparks to have the most complete co-operation of every element in the legion in order that the great work of rehabilitation, with its many associated charities, go forward without delay. Correspondence with Mr. Sparks should be addressed to national headquarters at Indianapolis, Ind.

E. E. Goodwyn, department commander of Virginia, has written a letter of congratulation and appreciation to Robert B. Tunstall, the commander of Post No. 36, Norfolk, Va., for the showing the post made in athletics at the national convention at New Orleans, and adds: "You also have the largest membership of any post in the state." Three events were won by members of the post in New Orleans. They are: Charles McDermott, heavyweight boxing; F. H. Byrd, individual track trophy; J. Mason Hodges, membership contest. "Besides reflecting honor to yourselves," the department commander tells the post commander, "you have been a great credit to the state."

Teacher—Willie, what great change occurred during the world war? Willie—Pop bought maw a new washboard.—American Legion Weekly.

The high degree of physical strength which has brought most international sporting championships to American athletes is not typical of the bulk of the population of the United States, according to a statement made by Garland W. Powell, director of the American Legion's national Americanism commission. The legion, which is conducting American Education Week, December 3 to 9, inclusive, in co-operation with the National Physical Education Society, has designated December 9 as national physical education day. State, county and city school officials in all states will assist in the day by holding special athletic exhibitions. The legion will endeavor to stimulate public interest in the building of playgrounds and other recreation centers designated to keep the children off the streets. "America needs the assistance of all patriots in raising the physical standard of our people," Mr. Powell said. "The results of the army draft, based on a report made by the provost marshal general, showed that 22.4 per cent, or 1,340,623 men, were rejected for general military service on account of physical disabilities. There were 4,650,500 men in the United States army." Mr. Powell said that the figures were especially significant when it is realized that all of the physically disqualified were included in the ages from 21 to 30, the period of life when a man is supposed to be at his best physically. Had the examinations included those over 30 years, the percentage of the unfit would be more than doubled, according to Mr. Powell. "It is the verdict of medical men that most of the defects listed as the causes for rejection could have been prevented by adequate physical education programs," Mr. Powell stated. "One authority states: '1. Heart disease could be prevented by proper strengthening of the heart through physical activities, by proper removal of physical defects, such as bad tonsils and infected teeth. 2. Malformation of the limbs may be prevented to some extent by proper physical activities. 3. Defective vision oftentimes could be prevented by exercise. 4. Underweight would not exist in many cases if there were physical activity and proper instruction in regard to nutrition, preparation of food and the like. 5. Hernia undoubtedly in the majority of cases would be prevented by the development of abdominal muscles. 6. Instruction in care of the feet and selection of shoes will prevent a large proportion of the flat feet.' The legion's purpose is to raise the general standard of physical development as an essential feature of the nation's future," Mr. Powell stated.

The American Legion will appeal to the conscience of the American people instead of demanding their support in obtaining justice for ex-service men. Alvin Owsley, national commander of the legion, declared in a recent address before the Service Club, composed of Indianapolis world war veterans. "Adjusted compensation has been sustained not only by the American Legion membership, but by an overwhelming majority of the American public," Mr. Owsley said. "It has been authorized by fifteen states where it has passed by votes of from two to seven to one." The national commander said that opponents of adjusted compensation had endeavored to create the impression that the cash feature is the paramount issue and that the general public is not sufficiently informed in regard to the other beneficial means of compensation. "If an ex-service man can find a home, find a good American girl and have children, there will be an end to Bolshevism in this country," Mr. Owsley said, in discussing the home purchase feature of compensation. The land settlement provision also would mean much to the United States, the legion head asserted, inasmuch as it means that thousands of acres of arid and swamp land would be reclaimed and made to produce food for the whole country. Mr. Owsley pointed out that fifty-seven per cent of the American population is concentrated in the large cities and stated that the adoption of the land settlement feature of compensation would tend to draw veterans from the overcrowded cities to the thinly populated areas of the country where their efforts are most needed for future national prosperity.

The American Red Cross is an American institution, and has made good in every emergency. It deserves the loyal and generous support of all true citizens. The Red Cross is known the world over for its good works.—Alvin M. Owsley, national commander of the American Legion.

The big question disturbing official Washington is how the country interprets the election. The Republicans still retain majorities in the house and senate, although greatly reduced. They say officially, we are satisfied, the administration was vindicated, all the setbacks were due to the lack of leadership in congress. The Democrats refuse to concede this. They claim the Democratic victories were primarily repudiation of President Harding's administration. The progressive and radical Republicans, who have suddenly become the balance of power in the new house and senate, assert they will carry out their own program. This includes repeal of railroad laws, modification of the taxation laws which relieved the big corporations and the recipients of large incomes and a fight on the ship subsidy bill, for which President Harding has called a special session of congress. With a reduction of senatorial opponents to the soldiers' ad-Justed compensation bill from 33 to 27, the American Legion states that "one man will no longer have the power to stand between the ex-service population and justice." This means the legion believes that a veto by the president will not be sustained by the new senate. The old house overrode the veto five to one, and the new house is even more pro-compensation. In the meantime, speculation is rife on the ship subsidy bill, for which President Harding called the special session. It is a subject near and dear to the president's heart, but progressive Republicans, especially those in the farm bloc, are not enthusiastic. Regulars are threatening these, intimating that they will not receive help in future if they do not "play ball" with the old guard. The progressives have not yet shown signs of weakening.

FEDERATION CONTRADICTS THE EMPLOYMENT CLAIMS

Reports of a shortage of labor emanating from Republican sources and evidently designed to create the impression that industrial prosperity has returned, are denied by representatives of the American Federation of Labor. Officials of the federation have just conducted a survey of the country and upon this found their statement that far from a shortage there is a great surplus of workers of all crafts and classes.

"From the Atlantic to the Pacific, from the lakes to the Gulf of Mexico, there comes the same story of men looking for work," says the federation's official statement.

This Republican claim of a scarcity of workers has been coupled with an announcement in Republican organs that the Harding administration is about to consider the amendment of the immigration laws to permit a larger influx of European laborers to meet the alleged demands of American industry.

BONUS BILL IS BANQUO'S GHOST FOR REPUBLICANS

Returns from states which on November 7 voted on propositions to provide bonuses to such of their citizens as served in the world war indicate that the next Republican congress will again be confronted with the necessity of passing or defeating a soldiers' adjusted compensation bill.

Four states—Illinois, Iowa, Kansas and Oklahoma—have recorded themselves in favor of additional compensation for soldiers. All but Oklahoma are normally Republican states. All together, they have 52 representatives and eight senators in congress. Most of these congressmen are Republicans.

Radical and progressive Republican congressmen elected in western states on November 7 are already talking of restoring the excess profits taxes and the high surtaxes as a means of raising revenues with which to pay soldier bonuses from the federal treasury. President Harding and the Republican senators who have been opposing further compensation will have a hard time, it is expected, in preventing a bonus bill from getting through the next congress.

With the defeat of Republican senators who fought the bonus in the present congress, there is doubt whether enough votes can be marshaled by the president to sustain his veto if he feels obliged once more to disapprove such a measure.

DEMOCRATS LAUD MR. HULL

Democrats in all parts of the country have been gladdened and stimulated by the victory which their party won in the election of November 7, and a general determination to make this the beginning of a national triumph in 1924 has become manifest. In telegrams and letters of congratulation received by Chairman Cordell Hull, of the Democratic national committee, leading Democrats have urged the immediate initiation of an active presidential campaign.

Chairman Hull won an overwhelming personal victory in his election to congress by a majority exceeding 8,000, which is double the highest ever given to a candidate in his district. Chairman Hull has paid a high compliment to the effective organization and publicity work done by the headquarters staff during the campaign.

Former President Wilson was among the numerous prominent Democrats who sent congratulatory messages to Chairman Hull.

"I feel that I speak only the sentiment of the whole party when I convey to you my heartfelt congratulations on the results of the election," Mr. Wilson wrote to Judge Hull. "I am sure that the fine work you and the committee did by way of preparation will be universally recognized."

George Gordon Battle, who managed Dr. Royal S. Copeland's senatorial campaign; Homer S. Cummings, former chairman of the Democratic national committee; Colonel Edward House, Gavin McNab, Democratic leader in California; David Hunter Miller, former adviser to the American Commission to Negotiate Peace; William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury; Alvin W. Davis, former ambassador to Great Britain; W. A. Day, president of the Equitable Insurance Society of the United States; and Angus W. McLean, former director of the War Finance Corporation, are among the hundreds of Democrats in all parts of the country from whom words of congratulations and inspirations have been coming to Democratic national headquarters.

More overalls are being sold. If congress doesn't act quickly, times are going to get better.

COST OF LIVING INCREASES AS PRICES CONTINUE UPWARD

Steady increases in the cost of living and general unemployment are the conditions reported at the beginning of winter in practically every section of the United States. In a statement issued by the United States department of labor it is shown that between September 15 and October 15 the retail prices of food in twenty-six representative cities advanced from less than one-half of one per cent to four per cent. This was a continuance of the previous upward trend.

Along with the rise in the cost of food and supplies for the household there was an increase in the prices of clothing and fabrics of silk, cotton and wool. The price of overcoatings is 25 per cent above the quotations of 1922. A $3 fabric, it is announced from New York, has been raised to $4 in the preliminary showings of materials for 1923. Dealers are attributing the increase to the higher cost of wool.

The report of the department of labor told of increases in the prices of men's and women's clothing of all materials and qualities. The New York Journal of Commerce, in a review of various markets, says:

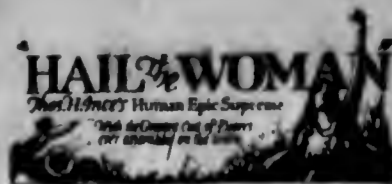

"Rising prices continue in primary dry goods markets. The demand for cotton goods was stimulated by a sharp advance in raw cotton. Sheetings, print cloths and combed yarn goods in the gray are higher. Wool goods are firm and rising. Silk goods have been showing advances and sales are steady."

Meat dealers in Philadelphia complain that the packers have created artificial conditions in that city to force prices to higher levels.

The cost of practically every material and commodity that was "protected" by the Fordney-McCumber protectionists' tariff law has mounted noticeably since its passage. The cotton textile trust, the wool trust, the beef trust, the steel trust and all the big monopolies which control basic commodities have apparently begun to turn their "protection" into high profits for themselves.

No reports of increases in wages have been issued by the department of labor, and there is no sign that thousands of workers now out of

Y. W. C. A. Members Adopt Resolutions

Report of the findings committee of the second annual Older Girls' Conference of Eastern and Central Kentucky, Mt. Sterling, November 24 to 26.

The theme of the conference, "How Wide is Your World?" is best expressed in a poem by Edna St. Vincent Millay.

From the splendid and inspiring talks of Miss Bonner, Miss Dickoy, Miss Jowell, Mrs. Turner, Miss Button, Rev. Ray, Rev. Crates and Rev. Hamilton, we have selected the following points:

Our world today is infinitely wider than was that of our mothers, grandmothers and great-grandmothers, yet it is just what we make it.

Development must be fourfold, as follows:

Health—Our bodies are the temples wherein our souls dwell. Our health is a heritage that is ours to guard.

Knowledge—Are we using to the fullest extent the mind that is ours to develop?

Service—Not to live for ourselves, but to contribute our share toward the family, the school, the community, the state, the nation and the world.

Spirit—The precious thing that is the base of all; it is love, reflected in our characters, our personalities. It comes to us from only one source—from Christ. It means living in the presence of the beautiful.

The ideals of women have changed and in the present day when 52 occupations are open to women a double obligation rests upon them.

Homemaking, their primary duty.

Their civic responsibility—duty toward their community and their country. To take out into the world what we hold sacred in our homes is our obligation.

Technical suggestions:

Importance of registering the Girls' Reserve Clubs at the national Y. W. C. A. headquarters.

Requirements for registering.

Adopt a constitution that is in accordance with the one suggested by the national Y. W. C. A.

Send the constitution in to headquarters to be approved.

Hold regular general meetings that open and close on time.

Hold regular cabinet meetings with fourfold purpose, which is:

To create a spirit of friendship among cabinet members.

To encourage more friendliness among more girls.

To set a goal.

Make plans for the attainment of this goal.

One faculty adviser for each committee in large schools. One general faculty adviser in small schools.

Programs should be planned for the year; should be fourfold; should answer the needs of the girls.

Have as many girls as possible working for Girl Reserve rings.

Let each Girl Reserve seek in every way to at all times prove our slogan is to face life squarely.

Our purpose is to find and give the best. Our pledge, "I will do my best to honor God, my country and my community, to help other girls and to be in all ways a loyal, true member of the Girls' Reserves."

Findings committee, Lottie Poage, Brooksville; Dorothy Donald, Ashland; Josephine Skain, Lexington.

Whereas, the Y. W. C. A. Club of Mt. Sterling has so graciously entertained the second annual Older Girls' Conference of Eastern and Central Kentucky, we, the undersigned, in behalf of the visiting delegates present these resolutions as an expression of our gratitude with the recommendation of their adoption:

That our most sincere thanks be extended to the following persons, who have contributed so much toward the success of the conference:

To those who have so kindly received us into their homes for our cordial and hospitable entertainment.

To the pastors of the churches for their sympathy, co-operation and assistance and for their generosity in the use of their churches.

To the members of the banquet committee for making the banquet the delightful occasion it was.

To the musicians who added so much to the enjoyment of the meeting.

To the entire community of Mt. Sterling for the spirit of friendliness and kindly interest that has been manifested.

To Mrs. Ben Turner, the committee in charge, and the high school Y. W. C. A. Club of Mt. Sterling for making possible this conference that has done much to "widen our world."

Ruth Shelton, Ashland; Margaret Scott, Frankfort; Jimmie Hughes, Louisville; Ella Ramey, Russell.

COLORED FAIR HAS BIG DIVIDEND

At the last business meeting of the board of directors of the Montgomery County Colored Fair Association, among other business transacted a dividend of sixty-six and two-thirds per cent was ordered paid to each of the fifty stockholders, and since the checks have been forwarded covering amounts according to stock held.

This is the second fair held by this association. The first paid a very fine percentage on the investment and the second went fifty per cent better. No fair association in Kentucky or any other place from which we have heard has done so well. This flattering earning speaks well for the management and the friends who co-operated with them as well. The president, Peter Heasley, with a united board of managers did the work. With their hands to the plow they never looked back, but pressed on, making the fair of 1922 a great success in every way. The management is now laying plans for a 1923 meeting, hoping to make it in every way the best of all. We are willing to say now in advance that the 1923 fair will be more successful than the preceding ones. This board, organized as it is with Peter Heasley, the chief officer, have written indelibly on their foreheads the word success.
